MISS MARY L. SCRANTON, Librarian

MADISON, CONNECTICUT

THE LIBRARY COMMISSION
MADISON, WISCONSIN

THE E. C. SCRANTON MEMORIAL LIBRARY was built, completed and turned over by us to the owner under a single contract, which included architectural plans and services, the construction, decoration, furnishings, etc., complete.

The advantage of employing a responsible business firm to conduct a building operation to a finish and to the satisfaction of the owner, for a stated amount without extras, should be greatly appreciated.

Buildings of all kinds estimated.

The E. C. Scranton Memorial Library.

From a Photograph by Hunter.

This building was generously erected by Miss Mary E. Scranton of New Haven in memory of her father, Mr. Erastus Clark Scranton, who owned this plot of ground.

It gives to the people of Madison a library and reading room such as the friends of the library have worked for many years.

The first records of an association are dated "June, 1874," and in 1895 the result of their labors, a valuable collection of 1000 volumes, was entirely burned.

In the winter of '95 a new association was formed and legally incorporated under the name of the "Madison Library Association." By purchase and by gift, Rev. H. D. Latham giving all his small estate, Mr. R. E. Rice and Rev. J. A. Gallup and others giving many books, a library numbering 1180 books was gathered, and on July 21, 1900, with this as a nucleus, the new library and completely equipped reading room was formally opened for the free use of the residents of Madison.
